

Draft: Nga Kawatau are the expectations that students and staff have for themselves. They are linked to the school values (CREEK) and school vision (VAI)

Expectations	Voice (say)	Agency (Do)	Identity (Feel)
I ask questions, solve problems and seek answers and help others to do the same.	I want/interested to know. Help me find out. I can ask for your help.	I solve problems by asking, looking and reflecting	I feel excited, empowered and determined to find out more. I feel listened to and i feel ok to ask for help.
I am a genuine and active listener and respect your ideas, history and culture....	Can you repeat that? I really want to hear what you said.	I can respond and I can listen.	I feel powerful because I can respond, I feel connected because I can listen.
I look after myself and others every day.	I have a healthy lunch and say healthy things to myself and others.	I show respect to myself and others around me.	I feel like smiling.
I talk to people in a way that makes them feel good.	I think about the words I use and how they make others feel.	I look at people when I speak to them.	I feel confident because I can use my words to convey my thinking and feelings.
I am ready for learning.	Hi, I am here on time and I have everything I need to do great work.	I know what is going to happen at school today and I have thought about what I need to be successful.	I feel prepared to learn and help others to learn.
I act in ways that help myself and others.	I remind myself and others to do the right thing in the different places I am learning.	I am calm and interested in what is happening; I act like a role model to others.	I feel engaged with my learning because I know how to act.
I set goals, follow my dreams and share my interests with others.	"I am really interested in this. This is what i want to know."	I have passion and a plan.	I feel engaged because I am interested in what I am doing.
I take risks with my learning and help others to do the same.  I am a risk taker, I know that mistakes are a part of learning.	Fail and fix...	I think, reflect and have a go and I give others the space to do the same.	I feel proud of trying something challenging.
I know the names of everyone in the school and greet them. (is it more than greeting them people? communicating?)	It sounds like a friendly place to be.	I can say Hi to everyone in the school and they can say Hi to me.	I feel valued.
I look after my own things and respect others' property	I know how to take care of my things and I know how to look after others' property too. (not saying)	I take care of my own things and treat others' property with respect and kindness.	It feels great to respect my own and others' things because I know I am respecting myself in the process.
I work hard to explore and repair any harm that I do.	"Sorry, I made a mistake, how can I make it right again with you?"	I am honest about my part and listen to others. I work hard to make it right again.	It feels great to be in a place where I can make mistakes and fix them.
